Photograph the Colourful and Charismatic Ruff

Join us in early spring at Liminka Bay, the most important wetland reserve in Finland, where the dazzling Ruff gathers in peak breeding plumage. From the comfort of our professional hides, you'll have front-row access to a shallow water pool – perfect for capturing striking reflections, feeding behaviour, and, if you're lucky, even lekking displays.

Mornings often bring calm water, golden front-light, and rising mist – a dream for any wildlife photographer. Evenings offer a completely different magic, with dramatic backlight transforming feeding birds into glowing silhouettes.

This tour is designed for serious bird photographers seeking unique, close-up images of Ruff and other waders in dynamic spring conditions. With expert guidance and finely timed sessions, every moment behind the lens counts.

Will you be fast enough to capture the perfect display with wings flared and water shimmering beneath?

Highlights
